

Auctionlist Closing Date Sunday 12th. October 2025 !

Foreword

Dear Sirs and Madams, hello Record collectors,

When studying this list, it is advisable to take a moment to reflect.

All of these interesting acoustic testimonies originate, for the most part, from our collector ancestors. This can be as far back as three or four generations. They collected and preserved the records for us. Many of us still remember the sometimes adventurous stories of how records were acquired privately. Record by record . . . , sometimes with great effort. Everyone could tell stories . . . Unfortunately, this is less and less the case, and more and more records come from collections.

It is always admirable to see the expertise with which these people, who were indeed of a special kind, compiled their collections. Thank you!

If we could do as we pleased, there would probably be an entry for almost every second record to scan and highlight in the list, but unfortunately there is not enough space. . . .

Two speeches are particularly noteworthy. Franklin Delano Roosevelt & Neville Chamberlain. From another era! People still made an effort back then. They come highly recommended to today's politicians.

This year's cover image comes from an advertising sticker on a record from the Netherlands. I have altered it slightly, but the basic idea of the unknown designer is still visible.

As usual, after the list comes the notifications and then the remaining list for all bidders. Processing these always takes a few days. This means that things don't move quite as quickly in the first few days after the list is sent out. Please bear with me and I'll do my best!

Once again, six colleagues have contributed records to the list.

As a rule, no records that do not provide an acceptable listening experience are included in this list! I mention this because, once again, there are records in supposedly poor condition. However, it is very often the case that these still play well! Sometimes even better than those in top condition. In most cases, they are marked as 'plays well'! These are often records from collectors, and in my experience, our predecessors can be trusted...

With such a large amount of information, errors can creep in. The most common is 'number salad'. With mountains of numbers, this is probably unavoidable.

Otherwise, I welcome additions of all kinds, which I will gladly enter into my database.

The labels shown can be found in their original colours on my website at www.rcc78.de.

There you will always find a few records at fixed prices.

After the auction, all active bidders will receive a list of remaining items at good, fixed prices. It will be sent directly by e-mail.

Now I'm glad to have done it again . . .

I hope that there will be interesting records for exchange again and I look forward to all offers/bids.

With best regards to all collectors from the Vogelsberg Region (Europe's biggest volcanic area)

Michael Ladwig

P.S. All Collectors who are taking part of the list, will get a list with the unsold records for a good fixed price after the auction . This Time I will send this list by email as a pdf-File. That's more practical and easier.
